Overview

For over 40 years, the Joseph P. Addabbo Family Health Center, a federally qualified health center in Jamaica, NY, has provided primary and specialty care, including gynecology, obstetrics, pediatrics, social services, and more, to underserved communities, regardless of their ability to pay.

The management wanted to lower energy use and costs, while improving the facility's appearance and energy efficiency.

Through Con Edison's Neighborhood Program, they received $90,455 in incentives and were able to complete lighting upgrades five years earlier than planned, at no cost to the facility.

The new lighting has refreshed the space and created a more welcoming atmosphere for patients. The savings from the upgrades will be reinvested into patient care and support for hospital staff, alleviating some pressure on the community-based organization.

Testimonial

“As a Federally Qualified Health Center, our funding does not typically allow for facility improvements. However, we took full advantage of Con Edison’s incentives to upgrade to LED lighting. This enhancement not only creates a more aesthetically pleasing environment for our patients, but also benefits our team members.”

—Renee Hastick-Motes, MPA, Chief Executive Officer
