

Neighborhood Program FAQ

Q: What is the Neighborhood Program?

A: It's an easy way for residents and business owners in select neighborhoods of Brooklyn and Queens to use less energy and save on their electric bills.

Nearly 5,000 local businesses and 9,000 residential customers in the area are already participating. So if you're in the neighborhood, sign up today. You'll use less energy and save money each month. It's a win-win.

Q: Why is Con Edison offering this program?

A: These neighborhoods are seeing a huge increase in demand for electricity. Instead of building costly new infrastructure to meet this demand, Con Edison is helping customers in these areas to use less energy so we can keep everyone's service more reliable.

Q: Who is eligible?

A: The Neighborhood Program is open to residents and business owners in qualifying parts of:

Brooklyn

Greenpoint
East Williamsburg
Bushwick
Bedford-Stuyvesant
Crown Heights
East Flatbush
Brownsville
East New York
Cypress Hills

Queens

Richmond Hill
Howard Beach
Broad Channel
Ozone Park
South Ozone Park
Woodhaven
Kew Gardens

Check our map at conEd.com/neighborhood for the boundaries.

Q: Who can participate?

A: We've got incentives for:

- Small-business owners
- Residents in 1-4 family homes
- Apartment building owners (5+ units) and their tenants
- Commercial and industrial customers

Q: How does the program work?

A: Con Edison-approved contractors will visit your home or business and install any upgrades you agree to. It will take under an hour to do this work in homes. Small-business customers and multifamily building managers can schedule a free energy survey for a more in-depth look at upgrades that will work best in your business or building.
